III. Cloze Test 克漏字測驗：21 至 30 題，請選出正確的答案填入句子中。

Nearly every day in every city around the world, you can hear the following complaints. "The traffic is terrible and it's getting worse!" "The pollution is _(21)_ and it's going to kill us!" "It's so noisy in the city! There is no peace and quiet." Most of these complaints are true, _(22)_ sometimes. However, if the city is such a bad place to live, why are cities growing in _(23)_ in every country?

The simple _(24)_ is opportunity. Cities provide the best education and health care and the most interesting environment. The country is cleaner, quieter, and friendlier, but apparently, people are more interested in their work and their children's education. That is _(25)_, according to the United Nations, just over half of the world's population is now living in cities, and the cities are growing. Welcome to city living. Welcome to the future.

Reading is like skiing. When done well, when _(26)_ by experts, both reading and skiing are graceful, harmonious activities. When done by beginners, both are awkward, frustrating, and slow.

Learning to ski is one of the most humiliating experiences an adult can _(27)_. After all, an adult has been walking for a long time; he knows where his feet are; he knows how to put one foot in front of _(28)_ in order to get somewhere. But as soon as he puts skis on his feet, it is as though he has to learn to walk all over again. He slips and slides, falls down, has trouble getting up, get his skis crossed, tumbles again, and generally looks-and feels-like a fool.

The point about skiing is that you _(29)_ be thinking about the separate acts that, together, make a smooth turn. In other words, you must learn to forget the separate actions and simply perform all of them together as an integrated whole.

It is the same with reading. Probably you have been reading _(30)_ a lifetime, and having to learn all over again would be humiliating. But it is just as true of reading as it is of skiing that you cannot coalesce a lot of different acts into one complex, harmonious performance until you become expert at each of them.

IV. Reading Comprehension 閱讀測驗:31 至 40 題,請閱讀文章後選出正確答案。

The unusual climate change resulting from global warming has aroused more and more of the world's attention. One of the biggest causes of global warming is carbon dioxide emissions as nations keep burning oil, coal, and natural gas to maintain factories, houses, and cars. To reduce carbon dioxide emissions and prevent climate change, we can do lots of simple things around the house to save energy. Here are some simple tips:

- Always make sure to turn off the lights when leaving a room.
- Avoid leaving household appliances not in use on standby.
- Replace ordinary light bulbs with energy-saving ones, which will effectively cut down on the amount of electricity used per household.
- If doing a small load of laundry, select the washing machine's half-load option.
- Fix leaky water taps and replace old inefficient water heaters.

* Remember: If every household takes these little steps, the result will be big savings for all. More importantly, we can make a real difference for ourselves and our environment.

Dear Lincoln & Associates,

I recently saw your advertisement in Home Repairs Magazine, and it caught my eye. I have been unable to work for nearly a year now due to an injury that occurred while was working for the Plymouth Construction Company. I've been receiving some workers' compensation benefits from the government, but Plymouth has refused to pay remuneration for the accident. What's worse, is they dismissed me when those injuries prevented me from going to work.

I was the foreman in charge of the West Beach building project last spring when a forklift malfunctioned and dropped a bundle of steel beams. I was standing close by and tried to jump out of the way, but a beam hit my leg and hip, and I have had problems walking ever since. At this point, I'm looking to sue Plymouth for loss of salary and damages due to wrongful dismissal. I believe what happened is clearly their fault since it was a problem with their equipment, and that we would have a good chance at winning this case. I would like to know what your firm charges for a consultation, and also the cost estimate of going through the suing process. Please reply to my email address at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely,

Daniel Lee
